

The weakening of Indiana's telephone privacy law would do a great injustice to those of us who have gained a little peace at home. I have a phone for my own personal use and to allow my friends and relatives to easily contact me. I have a right to put a no solicitor's sign in my yard but apparently not on my phone? Telemarketing in any form is an invasion of my privacy!

Respectfully,
Matthew J Fullen
Resident of the Great State of Indiana USA